How Do I Interpret My Web Degree Audit?

1. Your web degree audit shows you your progress toward your declared degree program.
2. The audit is divided into sections, which are indicated by horizontal lines. Each section represents a different requirement.
3. To the left of the heading of each section (each requirement) you will see either “OK” or “NO.” If you see “OK,” this means that you are finished with that particular requirement. If you see “NO,” this means that you still have work to do to satisfy the requirement.
4. Within each section (each requirement), below the heading, you will see an itemized list of the parts of the requirement. These parts are called requisites. If you see a “+,” this means that you have satisfied the requisite, and you will see which courses were used to satisfy the requisite. In some cases the course used to satisfy the requisite will be “IN-P” or in progress. In some cases it will say “Pre-Reg” which means that you have pre-registered for the course and will take it in the following semester. If you see a “-,” this means that you have not satisfied the requisite. The audit will tell you what you need if you have a “-.” It may also tell you what you should select from. There may be a note containing important information.
5. It is important to know which courses are approved for your Comprehensive Education requirements. The degree audit will list approved courses to fulfill your Comprehensive Education- Essential Studies (ES) requirement, but it does not indicate which of those courses are also approved for the Comprehensive Education- Integrative Studies (IS) requirement. When selecting ES courses, you should, as often as possible, select ES courses that are also approved IS courses. To learn which of the ES courses are also IS approved; refer to your Undergraduate Bulletin. Fine & Performing Arts students can find this information on pages 313-319 of the 2006-2007 Undergraduate Bulletin. If you are on a different bulletin year, the page numbers may be different. IS approved courses are represented in bold print in the “Approved Essential Studies” course list. The online schedule of classes also indicates whether or not a class is IS approved. If the class is IS approved, it will say “IS” near the right margin.
6. A legend is included at the end of the audit for your reference.
7. If you have questions, don’t hesitate to ask your academic advisor. If you don’t know who your advisor is or if you have general questions, contact Christy Aggens in the Art Department office at 472-7594 or caggens2@unlnotes.unl.edu.
