Here is a page from a manuscript from 15th Century Bohemia.

This is written by Mikulaš Biskupec z Pehlřimova, (Nicholas “The Little Bishop” from Pehlrimov) who was the main theologian of the Taborite party in the Hussite movement. It is the beginning of his extensive commentary on the gospels, and contains the scripture analysis of figures like John Chrysostom, Augustine of Hippo, Nicholas of Lyra, and John Wyclif.

Below is a page from a late fourteenth-century English manuscript of John Wyclif’s Trialogus, which I used for my translation of that treatise published in 2013.
