Dr. Stephen Buhler will discuss the St. Crispin’s speech from several different film and TV versions of Henry V.

Dr. Pamela Starr will discuss the profound impact the battle and its aftermath had on the shape of Renaissance music. The late medieval English composer John Dunstable’s motet “Quam pulchra es” will be performed by singers led by Matt Oltman (former director of the music group Chanticleer).

There will be a short presentation on the life of Henry V by Adam Lambert, and a reading of the St. Crispin’s speech by Dr. Ian Borden.

For more information, see http://www.unl.edu/medren/events

Thursday, October 22, 5:00 pm

Heritage Room, Nebraska Union on City Campus