Department of English Policy
International Transfer Credit Evaluation for ENGL Dept. Courses

1) UNL transfer policy is that students who want to transfer a writing course can do so only after demonstrating proficiency with written English by successfully completing a writing course (ACE 1 or CDR A.) at UNL with a grade of C or better. Once this criteria is met, the department typically transfers a college-level writing course from an international institution as Engl 1xx or as the equivalent of the corresponding 100-level ACE 1 English option.

2) Secondly, courses in learning English as a foreign language are not transferrable for English credit. The College of Arts & Sciences and the department understand these courses to be, essentially, courses in learning a second or foreign language. That does not mean that students always get transfer credit for them at UNL.

3) Mostly, then, the department transfers courses for ENGLISH (ENGL) credit that focus on the study of literature or film where the language of instruction is English and the focus of the course is on the interpretation and analysis of literary texts (novels, poetry, etc.). To do this, students need to provide a syllabus for the course and may need to conference with the course evaluator.

N.B. In order to successfully transfer English 100-level composition as equivalents to our Engl 150 or 151, the syllabus and/or course description must show evidence of the following considerations: 1) multiple forms; 2) rhetorical considerations; 3) peer response; and 4) revision.
