Type your handwritten notes into a condensed study packet. Choose the class you most need to study for (a class that has a cumulative final might be a good idea). Go through your handwritten notes from lecture, discussion, and reading, and highlight the information that is most valuable to you (e.g. definitions or formulas you know will be on a test or ideas that you are still trying to make sense of). Type this information in a way that makes the most sense to you (an outline, bullet points, or even a narrative depending on the type of class and the way you learn best). Print your notes and staple them together. You now have a condensed, easy-to-read study packet for finals! Attach a copy of your study packet to this sheet (include name of the course). (required!)	2
Visit a UNL office you've never been to and get information about how their services could benefit you (e.g. Financial Aid, Study Abroad, LGBTQA Resource Center, First-Year Experience office, Explore Center, TRIO Programs, etc.). Attach a pamphlet/flyer or your notes from a conversation with an office consultant to this sheet. (required!)	2
Get involved! What are some interests you have that you'd like to explore further next school year? UNL has hundreds of Registered Student Organizations (RSOs) that help students get involved in everything from sports and hobbies to political action, pre-professional opportunities, and community service. Find at least one RSO you might be interested in joining at http://involved.unl.edu/RSO%20List%202013.pdf Research the RSO and write on the back of this sheet the RSO name, contact information, and why you are interested in joining or learning more.	1
Attend an FYE Success Workshop or UNL-sponsored academic or cultural event of your choice. List title of event, sponsoring department, date, time, and location. Write a short paragraph on the back of this sheet about what you learned from this event. Visit https://events.unl.edu/ for ideas.	2
Tweet a picture of your team studying in a location of your choice to the Learning Communities Twitter page @UNLLearnCom. Your photo must show your study materials and your Tweet must include the hashtag #LCStudy. Write Twitter handle on this sheet. Points for this task will go to the total team score, not to a player's individual score.	2
Study for one hour on your own in a new location.	1

2 POINT BONUS: Turn in completed Level 9 by April 3, 9 a.m. *NOTE: Level 9 is due AFTER SPRING BREAK

TOTAL POINTS: _____

Tip of the Week: Reward Your Team for Meeting a Study Goal

Sometimes it's a lot easier to get your work done if you know there's a tangible reward at the end. Set an academic goal for your team and decide how you will reward yourselves if you meet that goal. Maybe two hours of focused study equals a team movie night in the lounge? Or a team average of B or above on your next test equals a trip to Ivanna Cone? The choice is yours—be creative. 1 TEAM BONUS POINT for Tweeting a picture of your team having their reward to the Learning Communities Twitter page @UNLLearnCom. Tweet must say what you are rewarding your team for and what the reward is and include the hashtag #LCStudy. Write Twitter handle here. Point for this task will go to the total team score, not to a player's individual score.**
