

Application for Residence Classification for Tuition Purposes

Who should apply for residence?

All applicants for admission to the University of Nebraska should be aware that recent arrivals to the state may be classified as residents for most intents and purposes and still be nonresidents for tuition purposes under University of Nebraska Board of Regents residency policy (revised 1994). Therefore, when first applying for admission, all students who did not graduate from a Nebraska high school or who have not lived in Nebraska for a period of time long enough to determine resident status may be considered nonresidents until evidence of having completed all requirements for resident tuition is shown.

A change in resident status for tuition purposes is not granted automatically. A student who has been classified as a nonresident must submit an Application for Residence Classification and all applicable support documentation before resident status can be determined.

A student applying for residence for any semester or term beginning with the Fall Semester 1995-1996 will be required to have established a home in Nebraska at least 12 months immediately preceding the term or semester for which residence status is sought. Any individual who has moved to Nebraska primarily to enroll in a post-secondary institution in Nebraska will be considered a nonresident for tuition purposes for the duration of his/her attendance.

Enrolling more than half-time (7 semester hours or more during one semester) for any term at a university, college or community college in Nebraska during the 12 months immediately preceding the term or semester for which residence status is sought, will be considered as strong evidence that an individual moved to Nebraska primarily to enroll in a post-secondary institution in Nebraska. The student would therefore be considered a non-resident for tuition purposes for the duration of his or her attendance at the University of Nebraska.

A student applying for residency status must be a U.S. citizen or have been granted permanent resident, asylee or refugee status by the Immigration and Naturalization Service, unless filing for residency based on spouse or dependent status. If the student is trying to qualify for residency by spouse or dependent status, the spouse or parent/guardian must be a U.S. citizen or have been granted permanent resident, asylee or refugee status by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The University reserves the right to question and/or request a residency application and supporting documentation from any individual who wishes to be considered for resident tuition status.

How and when do you apply for residence?

Students who have been classified as nonresidents but believe they qualify for resident status should review the various categories outlined on the reverse side of this page. After determining the appropriate category, each applicant should: (1) complete and submit an Application for Residence Classification, (2) provide photocopies of appropriate support documentation, and (3) apply within the published time period. (Note: changing residence information on any other University forms will not change your residence status.)

Applications for residence for a specific semester or summer session can be submitted prior to the first day of classes for that period of enrollment. The last day to qualify for residency for a specific term is the last day of the registration "add period." The last day to apply for residency (including submitting all supporting documentation) is the end of the third week of classes of the semester for which the tuition was charged. For summer sessions, the application deadline is the end of the first week of classes. All students must register and enroll in classes for the term in which residency is sought. Failure to register for the term for which residency is sought will result in the cancellation of residency consideration.

What regulations determine residence?

Students' rights to become residents for tuition purposes at the University of Nebraska are determined according to provisions of the Nebraska Revised Statutes (reissued 1987). In accordance with these statutes, the University has been authorized to develop regulations and to make decisions regarding Nebraska residence for tuition purposes. These regulations provide the basis upon which the Dean of Admissions or the Dean's designee determines whether students qualify as Nebraska residents for tuition purposes.

Individuals seeking to establish resident status for tuition purposes who are subject to the one (1) year minimum requirement must be able to demonstrate that they have established homes in Nebraska at least one (1) year prior to the time they apply for resident status. Acceptable documentation for verifying the one (1) year residence period includes: (1) proof of home ownership, (2) apartment lease, and (3) canceled rent receipts/checks. Any other types of documentation must be approved by one of the University's residence officers. In addition to the one (1) year requirement, applicants will also be expected to obtain various other support documents (e.g. a Nebraska driver's license, and checking or savings account with a Nebraska financial institution) and to have held these documents for a reasonable period of time (usually at least one month). All 12 months of the residence period must be documented.

Individuals seeking residence for tuition purposes will be required to have their applications signed before a notary public attesting to the accuracy of their statements. If it is subsequently determined that information on an application has been falsified, the applicant may be subject to disciplinary action by the University before the individual will be permitted to continue to enroll at the University. Such disciplinary action will be determined on an individual basis, and may include measures such as disciplinary probation or suspension, expulsion from the University, or reimbursement to the University for the difference between the tuition paid and the nonresident tuition rate.

According to the policy, once an individual has registered and attended the University or one of Nebraska's state colleges as a resident student, he or she will be afforded that privilege during the balance of that enrollment, provided the individual has a current domicile in Nebraska. Any subsequent re-enrollment as a resident would have to take place within two years of the last date of enrollment (provided the individual has a current domicile in Nebraska at time of application).

Is there an appeal process?

Individuals who believe they have been incorrectly denied residence for tuition purposes may appeal that decision to the Director of Admissions. The decision of the Director of Admissions shall be final in any such appeal.

Scholarships for Out-of-State Students

In addition to other general freshman scholarships, NEBRASKA offers three major scholarships to out-of-state students, which are named after notable alumni:

- George Beadle Scholarship
- Ruth Leverton Scholarship
- Aaron Douglas Scholarship

These scholarships are based on the recipient maintaining good academic standing and continued classification as a nonresident of Nebraska. Scholarships are awarded based on academic performance, class rank, and ACT/SAT performance for freshmen; college cumulative grade point average for transfer students. No additional application forms are required for consideration – non-resident students are automatically considered for these scholarships at the time their application for admission is complete.

Nonresident students can be considered for other scholarship awards at the University of Nebraska–Lincoln. However, recipients of the Beadle, Leverton and Douglas scholarships cannot combine their award with the benefits of any tuition reciprocity agreement program or consortium for nonresidents of Nebraska.

Nebraska Income Tax Credit

Individuals who reside outside of Nebraska but pay Nebraska income tax, and the spouses or dependents of such individuals, are entitled to tuition credit upon documented evidence of such payment to the State. The tuition credit granted shall equal the amount of Nebraska income tax paid for the immediately preceding calendar year except that the remaining obligation cannot be less than the amount of resident tuition. Contact Student Accounts, (402) 472-2887, for the necessary forms and procedures.

Midwest Student Exchange Program

The State of Nebraska is a member of the Midwestern Higher Education Commission, a nonprofit regional organization established by compact statute to assist Midwestern states in advancing higher education through interstate cooperation and resource sharing. Other members are Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, and Missouri. The University of Nebraska will accept students from MSEP states who may find appeal in one of its four campuses because of a program's specialized nature or regional uniqueness. Students will only be admitted to programs at the University of Nebraska that are not available in the student's home state or are already oversubscribed. Students from geographic areas contiguous to Nebraska will receive special consideration for admission. Admission to the program will be on a competitive basis.

Students who are residents of the MSEP member states, who major in an identified program, and who meet admission requirements for the University and for the specific program, are eligible to pay 150% of resident tuition instead of nonresident tuition. MSEP participants are not eligible for the Scholarship for New Nebraskans and cannot establish residence for the purpose of paying in-state tuition.

Contact the Office of Admissions with questions or requests for additional information.
