

The Third Annual
Chambers Philosophy Conference
The University of Nebraska
Organizers: David Henderson and John Greco

Thursday, September 30
7:00 pm	Sandy Goldberg (Northwestern University), "Epistemic Perspectives and Epistemic Evaluations" Chair: David Henderson (University of Nebraska, Lincoln)
Friday, October 1
9:00-10:30	David Henderson (University of Nebraska), "What's the Point?" Chair: Aaron Bronfman (University of Nebraska, Lincoln)
10:30-12:00	Jonathan Weinberg (Indiana University), "What Good are Disagreements?" Chair: Deborah Tollefsen (University of Memphis)
12:00-1:30	Lunch
1:30-3:00	John Greco (St. Louis University), "Testimony, Knowledge and Actionable Information" Chair: John Gibbons (University of Nebraska)
3:00-4:30	Michael Williams (Johns-Hopkins University), "Skepticism and the Space of Reasons" Chair: Chase Wrenn (University of Alabama)
5:30	Conference Dinner, Audubon Spring Creek Prairie (There will be time to stroll some trails on the 800 acres of tall grass prairie. Dress comfortably.)
Saturday, October 2
9:00-10:30	Matthew McGrath (University of Missouri), "Two Purposes of Knowledge Attributions and the Contextualism/Invariantism Debate" Chair: Robert Audi (University of Notre Dame)
10:30-12:00	Susan Haack (University of Miami), "The Embedded Epistemologist: Dispatches from the Legal Front." Chair: Sarah Wright (University of Georgia)
12:00-1:30	Lunch
1:30-3:00	Keith DeRose (Yale University), TBA Chair: Leo Iacono (University of Nebraska, Lincoln)
3:00-4:30	John Hawthorne (Oxford University), TBA Chair: Tim Loughlin (University of Nebraska, Lincoln)
4:30-6:15	Commentators at large: Peter Graham (University of California, Riverside), Stephen Grimm (Fordham), Declan Smithies (ANU/Ohio State University) Chair: Al Casullo (University of Nebraska, Lincoln)
8:00	Conference party, 2557 Van Dorn St.

All paper sessions are in the Heritage Room, Nebraska Union, University of Nebraska, Lincoln

This annual conference is supported by the Robert R Chambers Research Fund. This year's conference also benefits from support from the Department of Philosophy, Saint Louis University, and The College of Arts and Sciences, Saint Louis University.