In the Shadow of Sexuality: LGBT African American Elders and Social Support

Mignon Moore, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Sociology, UCLA

Moore will discuss her work on the physical and mental health of lesbian and gay elders in New York and Los Angeles as they are affected by sexual identity, social support, community institutions, and medical care. She also examines the experiences of Black LGBT people as they entered into gay sexuality prior to and throughout the 1960s and ’70s as well as their current experiences with their racial communities as they age.

Monday, October 7, 2013
3:30 pm, Nebraska Union
(Room Posted)

This talk is co-sponsored by the Minority Health Disparity Initiative, UNL departments of Communication Studies, Educational Psychology, English, History, and Sociology, the UNL Ethnic Studies and African and African-American Studies programs, and the UNO Department of Sociology and Anthropology.