WHO WE ARE

Multicultural sororities and fraternities offer an alternative to traditional Greek chapters. Students who share similar cultural interests may want to consider joining a historically African American, Latino or Asian-based organization. All of these organizations promote scholarship, leadership and community service. Multicultural organizations offer enriched programs, which will mold and educate its brothers and sisters into productive members of society. The University of Nebraska–Lincoln’s multicultural chapters do not have living units so members live in the residents halls or in off campus housing.

ALUMNI SUPPORT

Each multicultural organization has an alumni system that supports and develops its younger members. Alumni members offer support, provide an instant social network and serve as positive role models in the transition to college. Chapters have alumni members throughout the world.

SCHOLARSHIP

Each member organization stresses the importance of scholastic excellence to its members and implements regular study hours and other academic programming to encourage their members to perform up to their best potential.

The minimum scholarship requirement for membership is determined by each individual national organization, usually a minimum of 2.5 GPA on a 4.0 scale.

INTEREST TO INTAKE

This three semester program allows students to prepare themselves to join a multicultural Greek organization. The program consists of community service events, application seminars, money management programs, mentor programs, study clinics, and events hosted by NPHC/MGC chapters and campus partners.

MEMBERSHIP

The preparation period preceding initiation is now generally referred to as the Membership Intake Program (MIP).

Some organizations accept second semester freshmen with at least 12 credit hours from the University of Nebraska–Lincoln. However it is high recommended that students wait until their sophomore year. Many organizations require potential members to be actively involved on campus and in the community.

All of the organizations have adopted non-hazing guidelines to ensure that membership into their respective organizations is non-threatening and supportive experience. These groups individually participate in informal recruitment throughout the academic year.

GOVERNANCE

The Multicultural Greek Council (MGC) and the National Pan-Hellenic Council (NPHC) serve as the governing bodies for the African American, Latino and Asian-based groups.
