

The Eleventh Annual
Chambers Philosophy Conference:
Normative Ethics
April 5-6, 2019
University of Nebraska—Lincoln

Friday April 5, 2019

9:00-9:30, Louise Pound Hall 102: coffee and bagels

9:30-11:00, Louise Pound Hall 102:

Chris Heathwood (University of Colorado): 'The Resonance Constraint'. Chair: Joe Mendola (Nebraska)

11:30-1:00, Louise Pound Hall 137:

Gwen Bradford (Rice University): 'Uniqueness, Intrinsic Value, and Reasons'. Chair: John Brunero (Nebraska)

Lunch break: 1:00-2:30

2:30-4:00, Louise Pound Hall 137:

Hallie Liberto (University of Maryland): 'Normative Powers and Moral Mechanisms'. Chair: Molly Gardner (Bowling Green)

4:00-4:15: tea and cookies

4:15-5:45, Louise Pound Hall 137:

Caspar Hare (MIT): 'Who Counts?' Chair: Adam Thompson (Nebraska)

Saturday April 6, 2019

9:00-9:30, Architecture Hall 127: coffee and bagels

9:30-11:00, Architecture Hall 127:

Doug Portmore (Arizona State): 'The Principle of Moral Harmony'. Chair: Mark van Roojen (Nebraska)

11:15-12:45, Architecture Hall 127:

Paul Hurley (Claremont McKenna): 'The Tyranny of Outcomes'. Chair: Adam Lerner (NYU)

Lunch break: 12:45-2:30

2:30-4:00, Architecture Hall 127:

Elizabeth Harman (Princeton): 'Can Actions be Blameworthy without being Morally Wrong?'
Chair: Jennifer McKittrick (Nebraska)

4:00-4:15: tea and cookies

4:15-5:45, Architecture Hall 127:

Holly Smith (Rutgers): 'Alternatives'. Chair: John Raibley (Kansas)