

Paul David Burrow

Department of Physics and Astronomy
University of Nebraska
Lincoln, Nebraska 68588-0111
(402) 472-2419
pburrow1@unl.edu

Education:

S.B., (Physics), Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1960.
Ph.D., (Physics), University of California at Berkeley, 1966.

Professional History:

Summers, 1960, '61	National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C.
Summer 1962	Westinghouse Research Laboratory, Pittsburgh, PA.
Jan. 1967 - July 1976	Instructor, Assistant Professor and Associate Professor, Engineering and Applied Science Department, Yale University.
Aug. 1976 - Aug. 1978	Associate Professor, Department of Physics and Astronomy, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, NE.
Aug. 1978 – May 2004	Professor, Department of Physics and Astronomy, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, NE.
1977-81	Consultant, Radiological and Environmental Research Division, Argonne National Laboratory.
June 1982	Professeur d'échange, Université Paris-Sud, Orsay, France.
Jan.-May 1998	Visiting Fellow, Research School of Physical Sciences and Engineering, Australian National University, Canberra, Australia
May 2004-present	Professor Emeritus

Academic Honors:

MIT Alumni Fund Scholar, 1956-60.
Nebraska Legislature Award for Distinguished Teaching, 1980.
Fellow of the American Physical Society, 1987.
Recognition Award for Contributions to Students, UNL Parents Association and Teaching Council, 1988-89, 1989-90, 2003-2004.

Professional Societies:

American Physical Society