Muslim women are often portrayed in U.S. media in negative terms, as covered up and silent, needing to be saved. Dr. Kang’s talk will examine Muslim activists’ successes—and failures—at influencing legislative reform to provide a more accurate understanding of whether and how women, including Muslim women, affect political change.

Wednesday, October 28, 2015
3:30-5pm, Nebraska Union
Colonial Rooms